Overview

2024

This Annual Report demonstrates the breadth of work being undertaken across the Church in Wales by local congregations to their church buildings. It also shows the commitment of the many volunteer specialists and experts who sit on Diocesan Advisory Committees and share their knowledge to help ensure works are undertaken in the most appropriate manner.

The Faculty System of the Church in Wales is a robust system of controlling works to church buildings which seeks to balance the heritage value of these building with the mission priority of the Church. In 2023, the Bishops of the Church in Wales commissioned Professor Norman Doe to undertake a review of the Faculty system and this work is ongoing but the first stage was completed in 2024. This involved a careful assessment of whether the Church in Wales should continue to benefit from Ecclesiastical Exemption. After consultation across key stakeholders, the Governing Body of the Church in Wales voted to support its Standing Committee recommendation that the exemption should be retained. The reasons behind this recommendation are:

1. LBC and the Exemption taken together are a lawful and legitimate exercise by the State of its protection of the Welsh ecclesiastical heritage;
2. the State is satisfied the Church has a robust process (the faculty system) justifying Exemption;
3. the Church has many identifiable benefits from Exemption broadly consistent with the Church's ethos – these outweigh the burdens;

4. Cadw guidance is clear and workable for the Church - and under it Cadw and the Church are partners each committed to ensuring the Church's responsible management of works to its listed church buildings – this a valuable partnership which includes mutual collaboration in improving both Cadw guidance and the Church's faculty system;
5. leaving Exemption raises too many uncertainties for the Church attendant on having to obtain LBC for work on its churches.

Stage 2 of the review involves a detailed review of the faculty process and system to identify potential recommendations for change to meet the objects of the Review. Stakeholder consultation is a key part of that review.

Work towards reducing the carbon footprint of our buildings continues. Energy audits continue to be commissioned to inform decision making and plan future improvements. Most notably a major project started in 2024 at St Cadoc's Church, Caerleon (visit web page) The key elements of the project are:

- Stackable chairs will replace the pews in the nave to create a flexible open worship and community space. Storage space and a dedicated children's area will be created along the north and south aisles;
- The existing inadequate heating system will be replaced with underfloor heating, driven by air source heat pumps and solar PV panels. All of this will provide a constant ambient temperature providing a comfortable environment throughout the year and a smaller carbon footprint;
- A hospitality area with flexible seating, toilet facilities, and fully fitted kitchen will be located at the west end of the church.

A glass vestibule will allow the west doors to be opened welcoming natural light into the building. There will be a new stone floor;

- Access to the mezzanine will be via a curved staircase and lift which allows accessibility for all. The gallery will serve as a meeting place for small groups, resourced with multimedia facilities, act as an overflow space for large services and events and provide space for performing musicians and singers; and
- The materials to be used for the mezzanine, office, staircase, kitchen and toilets will sympathetically combine the historical and rich architecture of the church with the modern clean lines of glass, steel, wood and stone.

This is an ambitious scheme which has been planned over many years but demonstrates what can be achieved and how major reordering projects are often the best time to consider net zero improvements.

At the same time, churches are increasingly engaged in the Eco Church scheme operated by A Rocha (visit web page). Over 430 Church in Wales churches are registered with the Scheme with nearly 300 achieving awards including several at Gold. The most recent is St Davids Church in Loughor which is also the 75th church in England and Wales to achieve the award.

During 2024, the Church in Wales completed the appointment of in-house Church Inspectors in covering every Diocese. This means that local churches have access to specialist advice and help to plan the management of their buildings. These officers are proving invaluable in supporting local clergy and volunteers with the challenge of caring for some of Wales' most significant historic buildings.

Work also began in 2024 to develop a Church in Wales Property Strategy to help the church 'do property better so it can do mission better'. A key component of this strategy will be how we can ensure the best outcome and future for all our church buildings even when continuing as regular places of worship is no longer possible.

Closed and Redundant Churches 2024

On declaration of redundancy by the Diocesan Bishop, churches become the responsibility of the Representative Body of the Church in Wales rather than the local Ministry or Mission Area. At this point, listed churches are no longer subject to Ecclesiastical Exemption and are covered by the secular listed building consent system operated through local authorities.

The Representative Body endeavours to find a suitable new use for the building by sale or lease. Property officers are employed by the Representative Body to manage the buildings until disposal including health and safety issues.

The Friends of Friendless Churches (www.friendsoffriendlesschurches.org.uk) is a key partner with the Church in Wales. The Friends takes into their care key listed, closed churches helped by an annual grant from the Representative Body. A number of important buildings are currently being transferred to the Friends who will care for the buildings and open them to the public.

We are working with a number of community and heritage groups to explore how certain closed churches can be made
