Overview

2020

The unprecedented year of enforced church closure due to the Covid-19 pandemic has presented a range of challenges for local churches. We have all learned to adapt and have developed, at pace, materials to support local churches both with opening them safely but also to conduct online worship and outreach. Stories of local church impact in communities during this national crisis are heartening and proof that churches remain at the heart of Welsh communities.

In St Asaph Diocese for example, there have been several inspirational examples of social outreach across the diocese – preparation and delivery of hundreds of hot meals each week to residents in Newtown, Powys; an incredibly busy Food Club in Holywell; online crafts with prayer and meditation sessions from Gwersyllt; and the preparation and delivery of hygiene hampers to residents around Towyn on the north coast. In addition, there has been the completion of major reordering schemes at St Grwst Llanrwst; St Bartholomew Sealand; and Ss Asaph and Cyndeyrn, now making them fit for the 21st century as accessible, flexible community spaces.

Many churches have also used the time to plan repair and improvement works as shown by the number of faculty applications made in 2020. That many of these works have gone ahead, despite restrictions and risk assessments, is testament to the large numbers of wardens and volunteers who support these buildings. Their faithfulness, without which our church buildings would simply fall into disrepair, finds its echo in the durability of ancient buildings that speak of divine changelessness even during a time of great anxiety.

In Llandaff Diocese, two churches with bright futures are the Grade II Church of St Anne's Roath, which is now home to the new worshipping community of 'Urban Crofters', who are making good progress in bringing this decaying building back to life. The second is the Diocese's flagship project - Citizen Church - in collaboration with the Church Revitalisation Trust, which has seen the Grade II Church of St Andrew & St Teilo's in Cardiff transformed into a City Centre Resource Church.

In Bangor Diocese the £3m "Llan" project, with a significant focus on pilgrimage, including an interpretation programme across a number of church buildings, was launched during the past year, and promises to open up many of our church buildings to new audiences and to tell their story with Christian conviction. The year also saw the launch of the "Stones Shout Out" capital project that, through coordinated fundraising, careful renewal of fabric and forging new partnerships, promises to safeguard and transform the future of five of the diocese's largest Grade I listed churches.

Compliance with Welsh Government advice during the past year has meant the closing and reopening of churches, sometimes more than once. In St Davids Diocese, the "second wave" of the virus resulted in more than 90% of churches reverting to online worship, a trend that is set to continue, even when churches are fully open again. Careful thought and attention is now being given to churches that may need to close permanently as we emerge from the pandemic. We are developing better processes to 'close churches well' and care for them properly until new futures can be found.

We are working closely with the Welsh Places of Worship Forum to see how it can best connect with and support grass roots people caring for places of worship – online activities, such as webinars, have opened up new possibilities.

Looking forward, we are focussing attention on net zero carbon. We are appointing our first paid post in this area with a new Climate Change Champion who will help us discern how our church buildings can adapt to this challenge.

Closures and Redundancies 2020

2020 will be remembered as the year of the pandemic (and much of 2021 too) with the necessary restrictions to prevent the spread of Coronavirus Covid-19 having a massive impact on all aspects of life. Churches were closed for public worship from March until June, by law, and when allowed to re-open, many were unable to meet the stringent risk management requirements or focused their opening in other local churches. Church communities adapted their activities to provide on-line services and support, but the extended closure of church buildings was truly unprecedented in history. The longer-term impact on communities of this enforced closure of churches is not clear; for some it has hardened their resolve to re-open and to flourish whilst for others it may have brought into focus that their church may no longer be sustainable.

Whilst the Representative Body and Diocesan Boards of Finance were able to provide significant grant finance to support local churches with their financial commitments during the year (and into 2021), it is clear that, in many cases, local financial reserves have been severely depleted. An inability to hold fundraising activities and collect donations at services has had a major impact even though there has been a large-scale move to on-line and direct debit giving in the last year.

In writing this report, it is hard not to conclude that the rate of closures will significantly increase over the next few years as the longer-term impact of the pandemic is revealed. This will leave an uncertain future for many listed churches across Wales.
