Foreword

The care of church buildings across Wales is, first and foremost, the work of our Mission and Ministry Areas. Local clergy, churchwardens, volunteers and communities carry responsibility for maintaining and sustaining these buildings, often alongside the demands of ministry and community life. This report reflects that work and, whilst it presents data at a diocesan level, the activity it records is rooted in the day-to-day efforts of Mission and Ministry Areas across Wales. That commitment, care and resilience is here gratefully acknowledged.

Across the year, a significant volume of work has been undertaken through the faculty system, ranging from routine maintenance and repair to more complex projects responding to changing patterns of use. The data demonstrates that churches continue to be actively cared for, with a strong emphasis on the maintenance of fabric, particularly roofs, rainwater goods and masonry, alongside a steady level of adaptation to support worship and community activity.

The report also highlights the pressures facing an ageing estate. The scale of repair needs, combined with financial and capacity challenges, continues to shape decision making at every level. Against this backdrop, the faculty system plays a vital role. It provides a structured and proportionate framework that supports good decision making, ensuring that change is carefully managed whilst protecting our shared built heritage and safeguarding the character and significance of our churches for future generations.

An important part of this support is the in-house Church Inspector network. Representing a significant investment in the care of our buildings, it strengthens the Church's ability to provide consistent professional advice and to support Mission and Ministry Areas in prioritising and delivering work effectively.

Whilst the data offers insights at diocesan level, it should be understood as a reflection of local action. Each application, whether for a minor repair or a major intervention, represents the practical efforts of stewardship at Mission and Ministry Area level.

This report tells a positive story. It shows that churches are being cared for, often in challenging circumstances and that the faculty system is working not only to enable change, but to protect the heritage entrusted to us. Sustaining this work will require continued support, investment and collaboration in the years ahead.

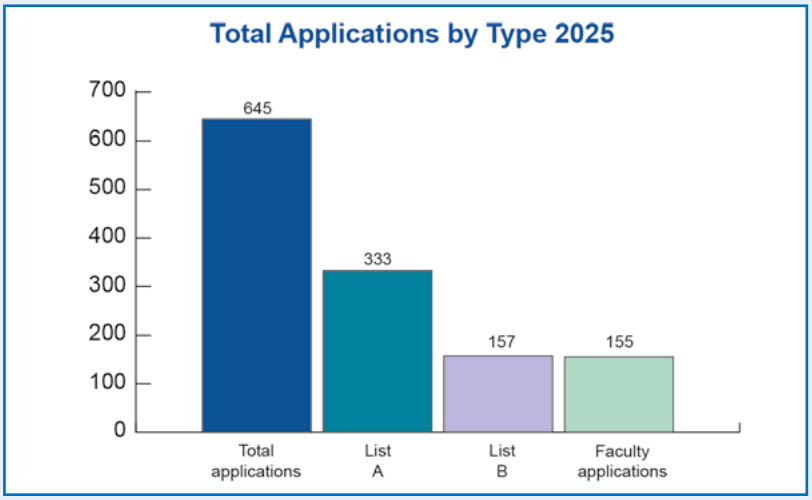
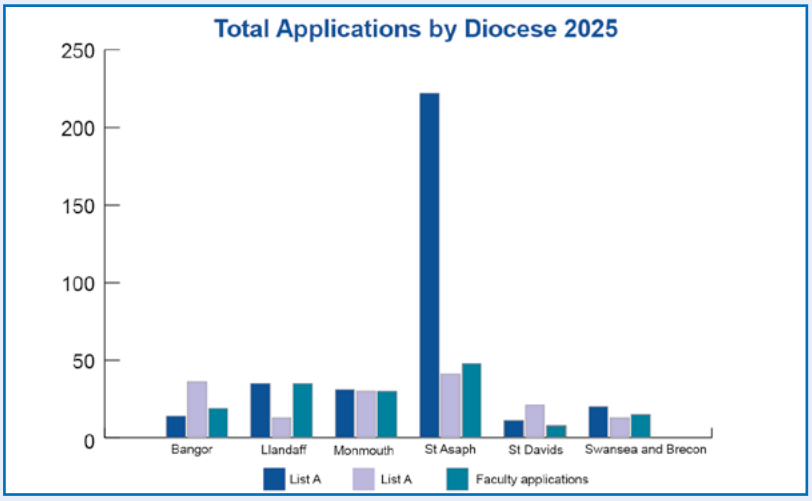
The Year at a Glance

During 2025 a total of 645 applications were processed across the Province. These comprised routine maintenance works, minor alterations and faculty applications supporting repair, adaptation and improvement across the Church in Wales estate.

Breakdown of applications:

- 333 - List A applications – routine works and minor maintenance.
- 157 - List B applications – minor works requiring diocesan approval.
- 155 - Faculty applications – larger projects requiring full faculty approval.





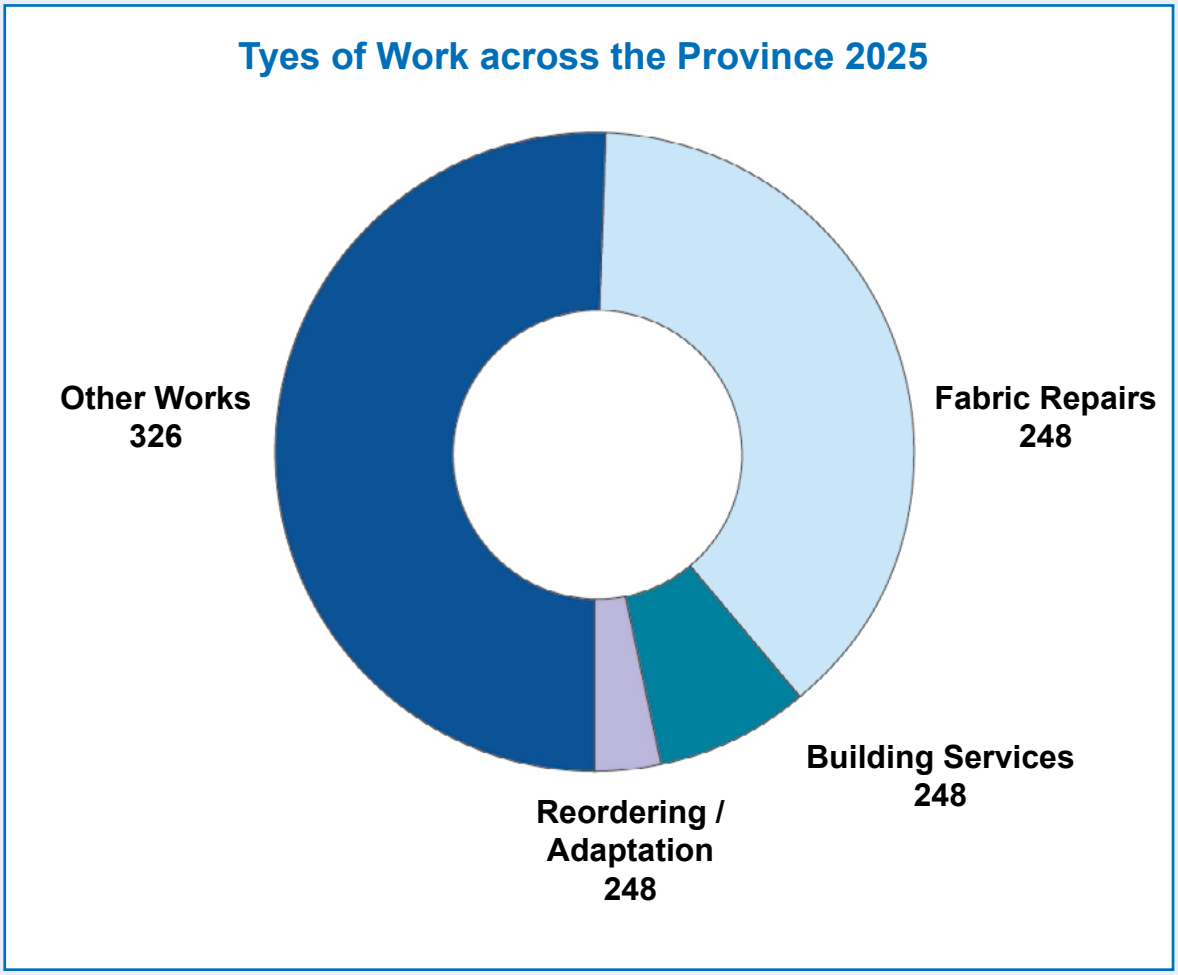
Activity levels vary between dioceses, reflecting differences in buildings and local capacity. St Asaph recorded the highest level of activity, whilst other dioceses operated at lower but broadly comparable levels.

Across all categories the dominant focus was the repair and conservation of historic fabric, particularly roofs, masonry and rainwater goods.

Pressures and Patterns

The distribution of applications across 2025 provides a clear picture of the pressures facing church buildings across Wales.

Across all six dioceses, the dominant pattern is one of ongoing maintenance and repair. Applications relating to roofs, rainwater goods, masonry and structural issues form the largest proportion of work. This reflects the ageing nature of the estate and the continued need for practical stewardship.



Although repair remains the largest category, a growing proportion of work relates to infrastructure improvements such as heating systems, lighting and electrical upgrades. These projects are essential to ensuring buildings remain usable and sustainable.

Taken together, the data shows a system under steady pressure rather than acute strain, characterised by a focus on continuous maintenance needs rather than large-scale transformation.

Responding to Change

Whilst the overall pattern of work during the year was dominated by repair and conservation, churches across Wales continued to adapt their buildings in practical and measured ways.

Most change was incremental rather than transformational. Projects often focused on improving how buildings function day-to-day: installing heating systems, upgrading lighting, introducing small kitchen facilities or improving accessibility.

In some cases, adaptation involved rethinking internal space. The selective removal of pews, introduction of flexible seating and installation of audio-visual equipment reflects a gradual shift towards more versatile use.

Environmental considerations also influenced decisions. Although large-scale energy schemes remained relatively limited, there was increasing emphasis on improved efficiency, sustainable heating systems and better environmental management.

Taken together, these projects demonstrate a consistent approach: careful, contained change that supports continued use while respecting historic character.

People and Capacity

The Property Team

The Property Team is structured to provide clear lines of responsibility and specialist expertise across the breadth of the Representative Body's estate.

As Director of Property Services, Michael Plane is responsible for operational delivery, compliance and service performance.

As Director of Property Strategy, Alex Glanville provides strategic oversight of the property portfolio and long-term estate planning.

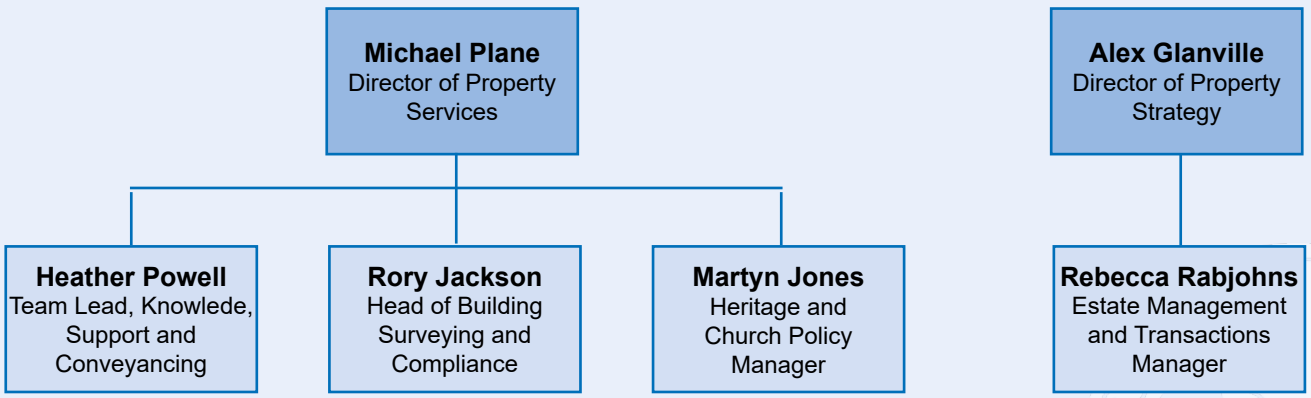
Heather Powell leads on Knowledge, Support and Conveyancing supporting documentation, conveyancing and internal coordination.

Martyn Jones, is responsible for Heritage & Churches Policy, providing policy guidance and the management of closed churches, supported by a Senior Property Officer and four Property Officers.

Rory Jackson as head of Building Surveying and Compliance leads a team of inspectors, surveyors and compliance officers overseeing building condition, maintenance and statutory compliance.

As head of Estate Management and Transactions Alex Glanville together with Rebecca Rabjohns, oversees leasing, estate management and disposals.

The team has also strengthened its in-house surveying capacity, enabling more responsive oversight of church buildings and better prioritisation of repair work based on reliable and up-to-date information.



Projects and Places

Case Study Projects Across Wales

The following case studies illustrate how the themes identified in this report are realised in practice. They demonstrate the range of projects undertaken across Wales, from essential fabric repair and investigative conservation to targeted reordering and improvements to access.

Taken together, they reflect the same themes seen across the wider dataset: a strong emphasis on maintenance and repair alongside carefully considered adaptation that supports continued use.

Corpus Christi, Tremeirchion

- Re-roofing and High-Level Fabric Repairs

Context

Corpus Christi Church, Tremeirchion is a Grade II* listed building of exceptional historic interest, with origins dating back to at least the 12th century and possible earlier Christian use of the site. The church retains significant medieval fabric, including its roof structure, monuments and historic materials, and continues to play an important role within the local community.

The Issue

The building faced a number of condition related challenges:

- Deterioration of roof coverings and high-level masonry identified in a recent fabric condition report
- Risk to historic fabric, including traditional Welsh slate roofing and associated features
- Ongoing weathering and exposure affecting the long-term integrity of the structure
- Need to improve thermal performance while maintaining the building's historic character.

Without intervention, these issues posed a risk to both the fabric and continued use of the church.

The Response

A programme of repair and renewal works was proposed, including:

- Comprehensive re-roofing using appropriate materials
- High-level masonry repairs to address weathering and defects
- Associated alterations to improve the building's thermal performance
- Implementation of recommendations identified through professional condition assessment.

The proposals were developed to safeguard the building while maintaining its heritage significance.

Approach

The works were:

- Informed by a detailed understanding of the church's high significance and surviving medieval fabric
- Focused on like-for-like repair and retention of traditional materials, including Welsh slate
- Targeted at high-level elements where failure posed the greatest risk
- Designed to preserve key architectural features such as roof profiles, dormers and bellcote
- Carried out with sensitivity to the building's evidential, aesthetic and communal value
- Particular care was taken to ensure that interventions respected the character and fabric of this largely unaltered historic church.

Outcome

- Safeguarding of the building's historic fabric through essential repair works
- Renewal of the roof using appropriate traditional materials
- Improved resilience of the structure against weathering and long-term deterioration
- Enhanced thermal performance contributing to sustainability
- Continued viability of the church as a place of worship and community focus.

This case demonstrates the importance of proactive fabric repair in highly significant historic buildings, supporting their long-term conservation while enabling their continued use.

Diocese of Swansea & Brecon

Brecon Cathedral, St John the Evangelist

- Insertion of New West Door for Universal Access

Context

Brecon Cathedral is a Grade I listed building of exceptional architectural and historic significance, with origins in the late 11th century and substantial surviving fabric from the 13th and 14th centuries. It forms part of a uniquely important ecclesiastical precinct within Brecon and continues to function as a major place of worship, heritage and community activity.

The Issue

The Cathedral faced significant challenges in providing inclusive access:

- Lack of level and dignified access for wheelchair users and those with limited mobility
- Existing access points constrained by historic fabric and level changes
- Previous adaptations insufficient to meet modern accessibility requirements
- Legal and ethical expectations under equality legislation to improve access
- Need to balance accessibility improvements with protection of highly significant historic fabric.

Without intervention, the Cathedral would continue to fall short of providing inclusive access to all.

The Response

A scheme was developed to provide a new principal entrance, including:

- Formation of a gently sloping external approach to achieve level access
- Installation of an internal draught lobby to improve usability and comfort
- Integration with wider heritage and access improvements linked to the National Lottery Heritage Fund project.

This option was identified as the only viable solution following extensive assessment of alternatives.

Approach

The works were:

- Informed by a comprehensive options appraisal, including North Porch and Vestry access routes, both of which were discounted due to unacceptable heritage and practical impacts
- Designed to minimise intervention within highly significant medieval fabric while achieving meaningful accessibility improvements
- Carefully located between existing buttresses to reduce visual and structural impact
- Supported by detailed heritage impact assessment to balance harm and public benefit
- Developed through consultation with stakeholders, including heritage bodies and the wider community
- Particular care was taken to ensure that the intervention was proportionate, reversible where possible, and respectful of the Cathedral's exceptional significance.

Outcome

- Provision of step-free, inclusive access to the Cathedral for all users
- Creation of a clear and dignified principal entrance
- Improved circulation for services, processions and community use
- Enhanced connection between the Cathedral and surrounding precinct, including the Tithe Barn
- Delivery of significant public benefit, outweighing limited and carefully managed heritage impact.

This case demonstrates how carefully justified intervention within highly significant historic fabric can provide substantial public benefit while ensuring that major heritage buildings remain accessible, relevant and sustainable.

Diocese of Llandaff

St Mary the Virgin, Bute Street

- Heating Renewal and Boiler House Re-ordering

Context

St Mary the Virgin, Bute Street, Cardiff is a Grade II listed church of considerable historic and architectural interest, reflecting both its 19th century origins and subsequent Anglo-Catholic reordering. The building retains a high degree of historic fabric and continues to serve as an important landmark within the local community.

The Issue

The church faced a number of significant and interrelated challenges:

- The existing heating system had reached the end of its serviceable life, with boilers beyond repair and distribution pipework failing
- The system was inefficient and incapable of providing adequate heat to support worship and community use
- Pipework failures below floor level had resulted in leaks that could not be easily located or repaired
- The boiler house roof arrangement had ongoing maintenance issues, including blocked gutters leading to water ingress and deterioration of the building fabric
- Continued reliance on the existing systems risked further damage to the historic structure and limited the church's ability to function effectively.

The Response

A comprehensive scheme of works was developed to address both mechanical failure and fabric defects, including:

- Full replacement of the heating system, including boilers, pipework and heat emitters
- Installation of a modern, efficient two-pipe heating distribution system
- Introduction of fan convector heaters to improve heat distribution within the worship space
- Re-ordering of the boiler house roof to resolve long-standing drainage and maintenance issues
- Retention and use of the existing boiler house location to minimise disruption to historic fabric.

These proposals were informed by a detailed understanding of the building's significance and operational needs.

Approach

The works were:

- Designed to minimise visual and physical impact on the historic interior and fabric
- Focused on replacing failing infrastructure with efficient and sustainable systems
- Carefully routed to follow existing service paths where possible and avoid invasive intervention
- Developed to address long-term maintenance issues, particularly water ingress and roof drainage
- Informed by a balance between conservation principles and the practical needs of an active church.

Particular care was taken to ensure that alterations remained reversible and that historic features, including stained glass and significant fabric, were preserved and protected.

Outcome

- Replacement of a failing and inefficient heating system with a modern, sustainable solution
- Resolution of long-standing maintenance issues affecting the building fabric
- Improved environmental conditions within the church, supporting worship and community use
- Reduction in energy use and contribution towards lowering the church's carbon footprint
- Safeguarding of the building's historic fabric through proactive intervention.

This case demonstrates the importance of addressing building services and fabric issues in a coordinated way, ensuring that historic churches remain usable and sustainable while safeguarding their architectural and historic significance.

Diocese of Monmouth

St Mary, Usk

► Installation of Community Pantry and Reordering

Context

St Mary's Church, Usk is an active parish church serving its local community, with a historic interior that reflects its long ecclesiastical use. Like many churches, it is seeking to adapt its space to better support contemporary community needs while retaining its architectural and historic character.

The Issue

The church faced a number of practical and pastoral challenges:

- Removal of approximately 50% of the pews in this area
- Removal of the associated timber plinth to create usable space
- Creation of a facility to provide food and essential items for the local community

The location was chosen to be accessible while remaining relatively discreet within the church interior.

VIEW OF EASTERMOST PEWS

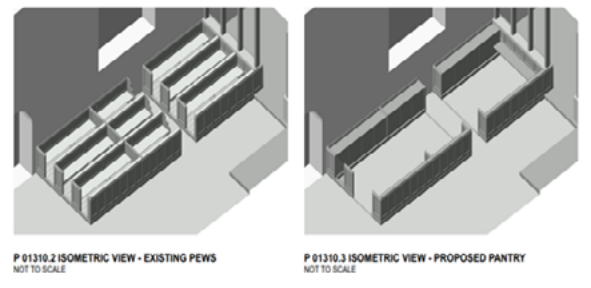
VIEW OF PEWS ADJACENT TO NORTH PORCH

- Limited facilities to support community outreach and social provision
- Underused and deteriorating pews within the north aisle
- A need to make better use of internal space to serve local people
- Increasing demand for provision of food and essential items within the community
- The existing layout restricted the church's ability to respond effectively to these needs.

The Response

A modest reordering scheme was proposed to enable new community use, including:

- Installation of a pantry along the north wall of the north aisle.



Approach

The works were:

- Targeted and limited in scope, focusing on a specific underused area of the church
- Designed to minimise impact on the overall character and layout of the building
- Focused on removing poor-condition and redundant furnishings rather than significant historic fabric
- Carefully positioned to balance visibility, accessibility, and sensitivity to the interior.

The proposal reflects a pragmatic approach, enabling change while respecting the building's historic environment.

Outcome

- Creation of a functional pantry to support local community needs
- Improved use of underutilised space within the church
- Removal of deteriorated and unused pews, enhancing the condition of the interior
- Strengthening of the church's role as a community resource
- Delivery of a simple, low-impact intervention with meaningful social benefit.

This case demonstrates how modest and carefully considered reordering can enable churches to respond to contemporary community needs while respecting historic character and fabric.

Diocese of Bangor

St Benedict, Gyffin

► Condition Assessment of Medieval Painted Ceiling

Context

St Benedict's Church, Gyffin is a Grade I listed building of exceptional historic and architectural significance, with origins in the 12th century and a possible earlier Celtic foundation. The church retains a remarkable 15th century painted chancel wagon roof, alongside other important historic features, and continues to serve as an active centre for worship and community activity.

The Issue

The church identified a need to better understand the condition and conservation requirements of its nationally significant painted ceiling:

- The medieval painted wagon roof is of exceptional heritage value but had not been subject to recent detailed condition assessment
- Previous restoration campaigns and environmental factors may have affected the long-term stability of the paintings
- Limited access had prevented close inspection of the painted surfaces and timber structure
- Wider building conditions, including moisture, heating and ventilation, had potential implications for the ceiling's preservation
- Without a detailed understanding of condition and risks, it was not possible to plan appropriate conservation or secure external funding.

The work forms a critical first stage in the long-term conservation of the ceiling.

Approach

The works were:

- Based on specialist conservation expertise and informed by preliminary inspection
- Designed to build a comprehensive evidential record through detailed survey and analysis
- Focused on understanding both paintings and their wider environmental context within the building
- Structured to include photographic recording, moisture assessment and targeted scientific analysis
- Developed to ensure that future interventions are informed, proportionate and conservation-led.

Particualr emphasis was placed on understanding how building condition, use patterns and environmental factors interact with the painted surface.

Outcome

- Establishment of a robust evidential baseline for the condition of the painted ceiling
- Identification of potential risks, including environmental and fabric-related factors
- Provision of clear recommendations to guide future conservation works
- Strengthened basis for securing grant funding for repair and conservation
- Safeguarding of a nationally significant medieval artwork through informed planning.

This case demonstrates the importance of investigative and analytical work as a precursor to conservation, ensuring that interventions are based on a clear understanding of significance, condition and risk.

Diocese of St Davids

St David's Cathedral

- Roof Repairs and Rainwater Goods Improvements

Context

St David's Cathedral is a building of exceptional significance, where the effective management of rainwater is fundamental to protecting historic fabric across extensive roof areas. The scale and complexity of the cathedral's roof structure mean that even relatively localised defects can have wider implications for the condition of masonry and other historic materials.

The Issue

- Defects had developed to the south nave aisle roof and associated rainwater goods. These resulted in inadequate capacity and poor discharge, with gutters overflowing and water tracking onto adjacent masonry. Over time this had begun to cause localised saturation and early fabric deterioration
- Inspection and survey indicated that the problem related not to isolated defects but to a broader failure in the performance of the roof drainage system.

The Response

- A targeted programme of works was developed to address both the condition of the roof and the effectiveness of the rainwater system. Sections of the roof covering were repaired and rainwater goods were replaced and upgraded to improve their capacity and performance
- Falls, outlets and discharge arrangements were also improved, and appropriately detailed cast iron rainwater goods were installed to ensure both durability and compatibility with the historic building.

Approach

The works were guided by detailed inspection and survey, allowing the intervention to focus on correcting performance issues rather than undertaking unnecessary wholesale replacement. The roof and rainwater goods were treated as a single functioning system, with all works carefully aligned with the existing historic fabric.

Outcome

This case reflects a wider pattern seen across the year: practical, technically informed interventions that help sustain historic buildings and prevent more serious deterioration over time.

Closure, Transition and New Use

In 2025, as in previous years, across the Province a number of churches continue to move towards closure as patterns of worship and available resources evolve. When a church is declared redundant by the Diocesan Bishop it becomes the responsibility of the Representative Body (RB) of the Church in Wales rather than the local Ministry or Mission Area.

At this stage listed churches are no longer covered by Ecclesiastical Exemption and instead fall within the secular listed building consent system administered by local authorities. The Representative Body manages the buildings during this period and seeks to secure a suitable long-term future.

Where possible, efforts focus on identifying sustainable new uses that respect the historic and architectural significance of the building, which may include sale, lease or transfer to organisations able to provide long-term care.

A key partner in this work is the Friends of Friendless Churches, which cares for a number of historic churches that are no longer viable for regular worship. The RB also works with community and heritage groups to explore opportunities for local use where appropriate.

Possible pathways include:

- Community use through lease arrangements
- Sensitive alternative uses
- Transfer to heritage bodies
- Sale with safeguards protecting heritage significance.

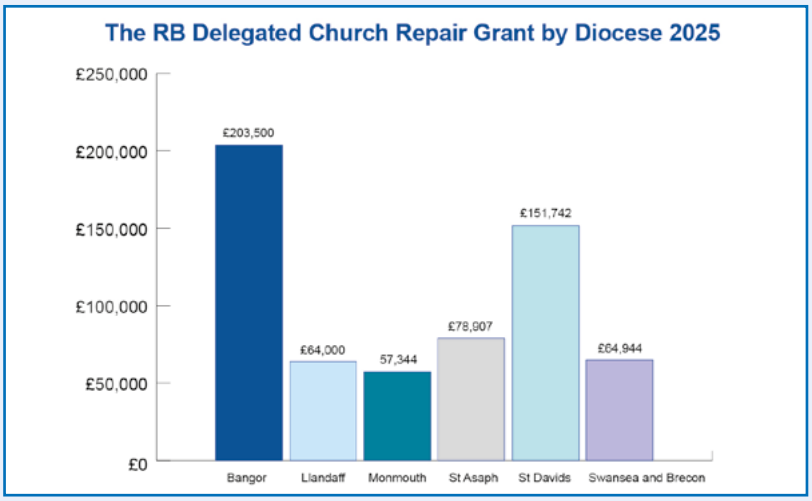
Funding, Partnerships and Support

Funding Support for Church Repairs 2025

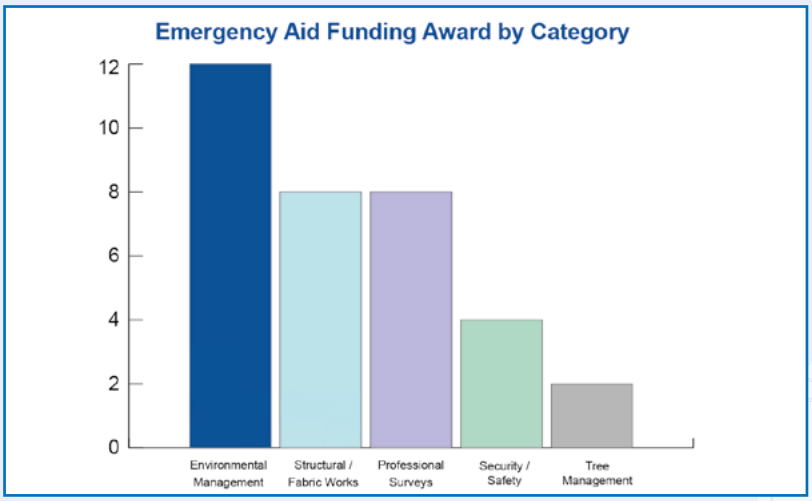
Repair work across the Church in Wales is supported by a combination of local initiative, diocesan coordination and targeted financial assistance.

The Delegated Church Repair Grant provides funding for essential fabric repairs, typically up to £7,500 per project. These grants enable churches to address maintenance issues early, become more environmentally efficient and prevent more significant deterioration.



Emergency Aid Fund Grants 2025

The Representative Body provides Emergency Aid funding for urgent and unforeseen works. During the year 34 awards were made totalling approximately £177,000, enabling timely intervention where delay would increase risk or cost. Together these mechanisms provide a coordinated approach to sustaining the estate.



Looking Ahead

The pattern of work during the year demonstrates a system functioning effectively, with consistent activity across dioceses and a clear focus on sustaining the built heritage in our care.

Looking ahead, financial pressures, environmental considerations and capacity constraints will increasingly shape how projects are planned and delivered.

The closure of the Listed Places of Worship Grant Scheme will affect the financial context for repair projects by removing VAT recovery for many works.

At the same time, climate change is placing increasing pressure on historic buildings through more volatile weather patterns whilst also driving the need for improved energy performance.

The priority will therefore be to support practical, proportionate solutions that balance environmental performance with the conservation of historic fabric, ensuring church buildings remain usable and sustainable for future generations.

The Cathedrals and Churches Commission

Overview

The Cathedral and Churches Commission is an independent body within the Church in Wales, providing expert advice on works affecting cathedrals and nationally important listed churches. It supports the Representative Body, Diocesan Chancellors and Diocesan Advisory Committees in ensuring that proposals affecting significant historic buildings are appropriately considered.

Role and Function

The Commission brings together specialist expertise across architecture, conservation, archaeology and art history. Its work supports consistent decision-making and the maintenance of high standards in the care and development of the Church's most significant buildings.

Its principal functions include advising on faculty applications, providing guidance on conservation, repair and development, and monitoring the operation of the faculty system, including Diocesan Advisory Committees and the Ecclesiastical Exemption process. It also advises the Representative Body on matters relating to built heritage and, where appropriate, on the disposal of church treasures.

Membership

The Commission is composed of practising and retired professionals with significant experience in historic buildings and heritage. This breadth of expertise enables it to provide informed and balanced advice across a wide range of proposals and contexts.
